Place: Columbia, Tennessee

Date: June 18, 2013

Mr. Hughes is scheduled to expire from supervised release on October 12, 2013. As a special condition of his supervised release, he is to participate in an adult education program and prove a consistent effort to the probation officer toward getting his GED.

Mr. Hughes was last before The Court on November 21, 2011, when his original term of supervised release was revoked for a domestic assault conviction in Marshall County. He returned to a subsequent term of supervised release on April 13, 2012, and he has remained stable continuing to reside in Marshall County. Mr. Hughes was approved for disability pay in June 2012, due to his deteriorating health issues. He and his ex-wife have remained apart in separate residences but continue to see each other with no incidents to date.

U.S. Probation Officer Recommendation:

Given Mr. Hughes' deteriorating health and advancing age, it is recommended he be allowed to terminate from supervision without having satisfied the special condition of working toward his GED. The U.S. Attorney's Office is agreeable with this recommendation.
